PFR: Pray For Rice!

For years the college in Papua New Guinea (CLTC) has been supporting itself through the sale of chickens, chicks and eggs. The market has changed so they are starting a new project: paddy rice. Pray that the school's harvest will be plentiful—in more ways than one!

Graduation!

As I walk across the stage to receive my diploma this month there will be two things on my mind. First is all the people who made it happen. Over the past two years my wife has edited hundreds of pages of my papers, three people have let us use vehicles for free, dozens have encouraged me to persevere, 97 people have given be thinking of all of you. Second, I will be thinking of what this training makes possible. I am now able to teach the truth with greater accuracy, and with greater passion. I am now ready to go back to PNG and share that fervor with those who will in turn teach others. As I graduate I will be praising God for the people who made it possible, and for the privilege of teaching His word. This is the desire of my heart!

December 15, 2006 will be a day I remember for the rest of my life!

Now What?

We love the Christmas season here in America. The chilly nights, the bright lights and tinsel that mark the celebration of Christ's birth are something we don't get much of in PNG. However, perhaps our favorite part of the season is the gifts! Our children have been planning their spending all year so they will have enough to buy gifts. They learned early that the presents we give are to remind us of the most extravagant gift ever given: the gift of God's Son to a world in desperate need of redemption. Even though we don't get the trappings of Christmas in PNG, we do have the privilege of explaining that gift of salvation year around where the need is so great. Please pray that many people would give to this ministry so that we can get back to the work that God had entrusted to us.

Prayer Briefs:

That's Gotta Hurt!

Michelle will be going to the dentist several times to have a tooth pulled and replaced. Pray for quick healing.

Free To Fly?

Not to PNG! It will cost about $7,000 to get our family there. Good thing we only need one-way tickets!

Contacts!

About the only thing keeping us from packing up and heading back to PNG is our support. Pray that God will lead us to those He wants to support this work—both individuals and churches. If you know of anyone, call us! (817-408-8432)
